VIRGIL Y. MOORE

was Signal Honors at The Oratorical Contest.

The annual debate between Kentucky State College and Kentucky University which was held Friday morning in Marion Chapel at Kentucky University in Lexington was a very interesting affair. The subject for debate was: Resolved, That the United States Government would be justified in establishing her permanent rule in Cuba. State College took the affirmative.

State College representatives were Beverly Todd Towery and Virgil Y. Moore of this city, and H. M. Platter, Somerset, Ky.

Kentucky University was represented by H. M. Stansifer, R. B. Stansifer, Jr., and M. E. Pitt. The judges were C. N. Manning, H. C. Folsom, R. C. Hager, Dr. J. M. Spence, of Lexington, and George Denis Dunden, of Paris.

A handsome gold medal was awarded to a representative of the winning team.

The Lexington Leader says: The contest Friday evening was in the nature of a social affair, and the subject matter was handled by each of the debaters with the aid of college yells and unbounded enthusiasm.

Moore, of the affirmative team, stood out as the most brilliant speaker. He spoke second and made the rebuttal speech. His was a seeming attempt at victory and was not as forcible as might have been if short of oratorical flourishes. But Moore came on for rebuttal he was in a situation in hand and clutch.

Stansifer, of the negative team, won the contest. He scored the point that left the affirmative speechless to answer. He brought down applause from his supporters and admiration from the audience.

Moore is the boy who is only 17 years old.

Standing conspicuously aloof from his colleagues in point of argument and personal power in debate was Virgil Y. Moore, a lad of 17 years of age. Long before the contest was closed it was manifest that the contest had resolved itself into a battle between H. M. Stansifer, the only University defender and Virgil Y. Moore.

In his rebuttal argument Stansifer regained several last points for the affirmative.

Mr. Stansifer opened the argument by stating that for moral, commercial and political reasons the United States should establish her permanent rule in Cuba.

He also added that his colleagues would present to view the same reasons from a sanitary and educational standpoint to the advantage of the Cubans themselves as well as the United States.

Beverly Todd Towery, stated that according to the Platt amendment and national honor involved it would be a violation of the fundamental principles of the government of the United States to establish a rule in Cuba against the wishes of the people.

Mr. Moore, in arguing for the negative stated that the meaning of the word "justified" was a basic principle and its original meaning meant law.

It would not be according to the law of justice for the United States to establish a permanent rule in Cuba, he said, out relations with Cuba are fixed at the fundamental principles of one-formal government.

I have to much faith in the American people, he said, to believe they will for once follow the forbidden path which would lead to ruin. Lexington Herald.

Some overseers have in the past used too many teams and have not had teams worked as they should have done. You are expected this year to use teams only when actually needed, and to see that the county receives eight hours of good work every day that team is reported.

Remember that you as overseer have made a sworn statement as to work done on your road and you can not be too careful in seeing that the county is not imposed upon. I want to urge you to push the work this year and do it now.

The fiscal court has planned to use road grader on such parts of roads in different sections of county as they can be advantageously used, but wherever graders are used the hands will be required to work at least six days, working such places as grader will not work.

Mr. W. A. Woodall will have the management of the graders, and I trust the overseers on roads when graders are used will heartily cooperate with him in the work. It is impossible for all of the roads to be graded in one year, but the work will be distributed so as to give all sections, where graders can be used, a share of the work.

MARION CHORAL SOCIETY

Entertainment a Grand Success and Was Attended by a Large and Appreciative Audience

The Marion Choral Society made its first appearance before the public Tuesday night and was greeted with a large and enthusiastic audience. They were very ably assisted by the Amphion Quartette, of Henderson, Miss Tommie Lyle Waller, of Morgantown, and Mr. Chap Blackwell, of Henderson.

Prof. Von Tobel, a musician, of Henderson, has been training our vocal talent for some several weeks and assisted by the singers noted above gave us a very beautiful and artistic entertainment. Prof. Von Tobel deserves praise and commendation for his painstaking and careful work with our vocal talent. It was certainly reflected in every chorus to a marked degree.

The Press-Record takes the liberty to say however that he played his piano selections over some heads in place of at all hearts. This however might have been more noticeable to the writer than others and at any rate he is not responsible for imperfections in his audience. Every one liked Von Tobel. He is one musician out of many without frills. He stays close to his work through an entire program and is devoid of the usual clap trap devices made only for effect.

The Amphion Quartette were very warmly welcomed in their first number. Their voices have been heard in the choruses and the ladies in solos and the audience were prepared for just what they heard—a splendid number well rendered. The singing of Misses Watson, Spoehr and Waller was well done and fully appreciated by the audience.

One of the best things in the whole program was Barnaby's "Sweet and Low" rendered by the chorists. The expression in this was to our mind almost perfection. This is one of the most beautiful pieces of music ever written. It can only be appreciated when sung correctly seasoned with expression by a musician of ability.

The distinctive feature in this song is the blowing of the wind in the next to the last bar and the conductor succeeded in making this effect very realistic. This number alone was worth the price of admission.

The audience was very generous with applause and the entertainment taken as a whole was a goodly performance.

McWilliams Special

...By...

FRANK H. SPEARMAN

Copyright, 1931, by Frank H. Spearman

It belongs to the stories that never were told, this of the McWilliams Special. But it happened years ago, and for that matter McWilliams is dead. It wasn't grief that killed him either, though at one time his grief came uncommunally near killing us.

It is an odd sort of a yarn, too, because one part of it never got to headquarters, and another part of it never got from headquarters.

How, for instance, the mysterious car was ever started from Chicago on such a delirious schedule, how many men in the service knew that even yet?

How, for another instance, Sinclair and Francis took the ratty old car reeling into Denver with the glass shattered, the paint blistered, the hose burned and a tire sprung on one of the Five-Nine's drivers, how many headquarters slaves know that?

Our end of the story never went in at all—never went in because it was not deemed—well, essential to the getting up of the annual report. We could have raised their hair; they could have raised our salaries; but they didn't, we didn't.

In telling this story I would not be misunderstood. Ours is not the only line between Chicago and Denver. There are others, I admit it. But there is only one line, all the same, that could have taken the McWilliams Special, as we did, out of Chicago at 4 in the evening and put it in Denver long before noon the next day.

A communication came from a great La Salle street banker to the president of our road. Next the second vice president heard of it, but in this way:

"Why have you turned down Peter McWilliams' request for a special to Denver this afternoon?" asked the president.

"He wants too much," came back over the private wire. "We can't do it."

After satisfying himself on this point the president called up La Salle street. "Our folks say, Mr. McWilliams, we simply can't do it."

"You must do it."

"When will the car be ready?"

"At 3 o'clock."

"When must it be in Denver?"

"Ten o'clock tomorrow morning."

The president nearly jumped the wire.

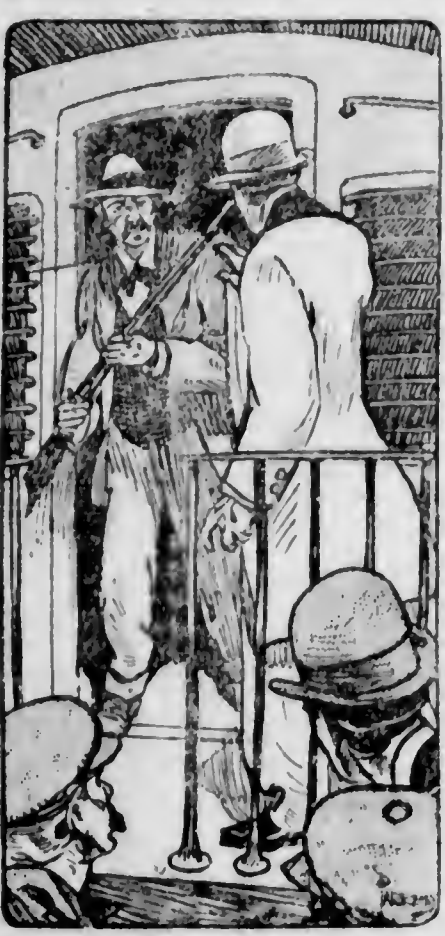

"McWilliams, you're crazy. What on earth do you mean?"

The talk came back so low that the wires hardly caught it. There were occasional outbursts such as, "Situation is extremely critical." "Grave danger." "Acute distress." "Must help me out."

But none of this would ever have moved the president had not Peter McWilliams been a bigger man than most corporations, and a personal request from Peter, if he stuck for it, could hardly be refused, and for this he most decidedly stuck.

"I tell you it will turn us upside down," stormed the president.

"Do you recollect," asked Peter McWilliams, "when your infernal old pet

The door was gently opened by a kid to the stockholders? Not so. It belongs to men like Mr. McWilliams, who own it when they need it. At other times they let the stockholders carry it until they want it again.

"We'll do what we can, Peter," replied the president, desperately anxious. "Goodbye."

I am giving you only an inkling of how it started, not a word as to how countless orders were issued and countless schedules were canceled, not a paragraph about numberless trains abandoned in toto and numberless others pulled and hauled and held and annulled. The McWilliams Special in a twinkling tore a great system into great splinters.

It set master mechanics by the ears and made reckless falsifiers of previously conservative trainmen. It made maddening enemies of rival superintendents and incipient parasites of jolly train dispatchers. It shivered us from end to end and stem to stern, but it covered 1,026 miles of the best steel in the world in rather better than twenty hours and a blaze of glory.

"My word is out," said the president in his message to all superintendents thirty minutes later. "You will get your division schedule in a few moments. Send no reasons for inability to make it. Simply deliver the goods. With your time report, which comes by 10 P. M., I want the name and record of every member of every train crew and every engine crew that hauls the McWilliams car." Then followed particular injunctions of secrecy. Above all, the newspapers must not get it.

But where newspapers are secrecy can only be hoped for, never attained. In spite of the most elaborate precautions to preserve Peter McWilliams' secret—would you believe it?—the evening papers had half a column printed, only the whole thing. Of course they had to guess at some of it, but for a newspaper story it was pretty close. Just the same. They had to imitate the time of the start from Chicago and hinted broadly that the schedule was a hair-raiser, something to make previous very fast records previous slow records. And here in a second was the secret the train was to carry a prominent Chicago capitalist to the bedside of his dying son, Peter McWilliams, in Denver. Further, that hourly bulletins were being wired to the distressed father and that every effort of science would be put forth to keep the unhappy boy alive until his father could reach Denver on the special. Lastly, it was hoped by all the evening papers to fill out the half page column space that sunrise would see the anxious parent well on toward the gateway of the Rockies.

Of course the morning papers from the Atlantic to the Pacific had the story repeated, scare headed, in fact, and the public were laughing at our people's dogged refusal to confirm the report or to be interviewed at all on the subject. The papers had the story anyway. What did they care for our efforts to screen a private distress, which insisted on so paralyzing a time and for 1,026 miles?

When our own, the west end of the schedule, came over the wires there was a universal, a vociferous, kick. Dispatchers, superintendents of motive power, train master, everybody, protested. We were given about seven hours to cover 100 miles, the fastest percentage, by the way, on the whole run.

"This may be grief for young McWilliams and for his dad," grumbled the chief dispatcher that evening as he cribbed the press dispatches going over the wires about the special, "but the grief is not theirs alone."

Then he made a protest to Chicago. What the answer was none but him self ever knew. It came personal, and he took it personally, but the manner in which he went to work clearing track and making a card for the McWilliams Special showed better speed than the train itself ever attempted and he eked no more.

After all the row it seems incredible, but they never got ready to leave Chicago till 4 o'clock, and when the McWilliams Special lit into our train system it was like dropping a mountain lion into a bunch of steers.

Freights and extras, local passenger trains even, were used to being sidetracked, but when it came to laying out the dies and (I whisper this) the White Mall and the Manila express the all began to sizzle in the journal boxes. The freight business, the passenger traffic, the mail schedules of a whole railway system were actually knocked out by the McWilliams Special into a locked hat.

From the minute it cleared Western avenue it was the only thing talked of. Divisional headquarters and car link shanties alike were bursting with excitement.

On the West End we had all night to prepare, and at 5 o'clock next morning every man in the operating department was on edge. At precisely 3:58 a. m. the McWilliams Special stuck its nose into our division, and Foley pulled off No. 1 with the 405 was heading her lizzy for McCloud. Already the McWilliams had made up thirty-one minutes on the one hour delay in Chicago, and Lincoln threw her into our hands with a sort of "There now, you fellows. Are you any good at all on the West End?" And we thought we were. Sitting in the dispatcher's office, we tagged her down the line like a swal low—Harvard, Oxford, Zanesville, Ash ton—and a thousand people at the McCloud station waited for 6 o'clock and for Foley's muddly cup to pop through the Blackwood bluffs, watched him stain the valley maples with a stream of white and black, scream at the junction switches, tear and crash through the yards and slide hissing and punting up under our nose, swing out of his cab and look at nobody at all but his watch.

We made it 5:59 a. m., Central time, the miles, 136; the minutes, 121. The schedule was beaten and that with the 136 miles the fastest on the whole 1,026. Everybody in town yelled except Foley. He asked for a chew of tobacco and, not getting one handily, bit into his own piece.

While Foley melted his wood George Sinclair stepped out of the superintendents' office—he was done in a black silk shirt, with a blue four-in-hand and streaming over his front—stepped out to shake hands with Foley as one brother took the 405 out of the way and another backed down with a new sky scraper, the 500.

But nobody paid much attention to all this. The mob had swarmed around the ratty, old, blind eyed baggage car which, with an ordinary way car, constituted the McWilliams Special.

"Now, what does a man with McWilliams' money want to travel special in an old photograph gallery like that for?" asked Andy Cameron, who was the least bit buffed because he hadn't been marked up for the run himself. "You better take him in a cup of hot coffee, Sinkers," suggested Andy to the lunch counter boy. "You ought get a ten dollar bill if the old man isn't feeling too badly. What do you hear from Denver, Neighbor?" he asked, turning to the superintendent of motive power. "Is the boy holding out?"

"I'm not worrying about the boy holding out; it's whether the Five-Nine will hold out."

"Aren't you going to change engines and crews at Arickaree?"

"Not today," said Neighbor grimly. "We haven't time."

Just then Sinkers rushed at the baggage car with a cup of hot coffee for Mr. McWilliams. Everybody, hoping to get a peep at the capitalist, made way. Sinkers climbed over the train chests which were lashed to the platform and pounded on the door. He pounded hard, for he hoped and believed that there was something in it. But he might have pounded till his coffee froze for all the impression it made on the sleepy McWilliams.

"Hain't the man trouble enough without talking your chileory?" sang out Felix Kennedy, and the laugh so discouraged Sinkers that he gave over and sneaked away.

At that moment the editor of the local paper came around the depot corner on the run. He was just for an interview and, as usual, just a trifle late. However, he insisted on boarding the baggage car to tender his sympathy to McWilliams.

The barricades bothered him, but he pointed them all and began an emergency point on the forbidding head door. Imagine his feelings when the door was gently opened by a sad-eyed man, who opened the hall by showing a rifle as big as a punch bar under the editorial nose.

"My grief, Mr. McWilliams," protested the interviewer in a trembling voice, "don't imagine I want to hold you up. Our citizens are all peace-shops."

"Get out!"

"Why, man, I'm not even asking for subscription. I simply want to see—"

"Get out!" snapped the man with the gun and in a foam the newsmen climbed down. A curious crowd gathered close to hear an editorial version of the Ten Commandments revised on the spur of the moment. Felix Kennedy said it was worth going miles to hear. "That's the coldest deal I ever struck on the plains, boys," declared he editor. "Talk about your benevolent parents. If the boy doesn't have a chill when that gun reaches him I miss my guess. The news to me as if he was afraid his grief would get away before he got to Denver."

Meantime George Sinclair was tying a silk handkerchief around his neck, while Neighbor gave him parting injunctions. As he put up his foot or a swing into the cab the boy looked or all the world like a jockey, too in thrup. Neighbor glanced at his watch. "Can you make it by 11 o'clock?" he growled.

"Make what?"

"Denver."

"Denver or the ditch, Neighbor," laughed George, testing the air. "Are you right back there, Pat?" he called as Conductor Francis strode forward to compare the mountain time.

"Right and tight, and I call it five-thirty now. What have you, George?"

"Five-thirty two," answered Sinclair, leaning from the cab window. "And we're ready."

"Then go!" cried Pat Francis, raising two fingers.

"Go!" echoed Sinclair, and waved a backward smile in the crowd as the pistons took the push and the escapes wheezed.

A roar went up. The little engineer took his cap and, with a blurring, snaking slide the McWilliams Special drove slipping away between the shining rails for the Rockies.

Just how McWilliams felt we had no means of knowing, but we knew our hearts would not beat freely until his infernal special should slide safely over the last of the 204 miles which

THURSDAY, APRIL 25, 1907.

We are authorized to announce

a candidate for Assessor, to fill out the unexpired term of J. Anthony Davidson, subject to the action of the Republican party. He endorses the local option law.

If Jas. J. Hill would just devote himself to hauling the freight up in his own that has been waiting for some months for its turn, and would do less worrying about the business future, he would make a great hit with a large number of people in this country.

Mr. Harriman seems much more willing to testify against that stenographer who stole the Webster letter than he was to tell what he knew about his railroad combinations.

He Ought to Know.

Uniontown, Ky., April 22.—Victor L. Spalding, formerly editor of the Uniontown Telegram, and now in lawton, Okla., wires a denial of the report that he is dead. He read his obituary in a Sturgis paper.

CHURCH NOTES

Rev. D. M. Green, the venerable Baptist Divine who has spent a long and useful career in the ministry, filled the pulpit at the Baptist church Sunday, taking his text from the first chapter of John 26 to 29 verses, "Behold the Lamb of God Which Taketh Away the Sins of the World."

Princeton Presbytery.

Princeton Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian church held its regular Spring Session at Crayneville April 9-11. Retiring Moderator, Rev. I. G. Joiner, preached the opening sermon. G. H. Whitehead, of Sullivan, was elected Moderator. Twenty-nine out of the thirty-five churches of the original Princeton Presbytery may be counted in the loyal line, twenty-three being represented by delegates, twenty-four churches of the twenty-nine sending in the regular presbyterial dues.

The committees made interesting and encouraging reports showing that the work after the late disruption is being shaped along in progressive lines. The Rev. A. C. Bidle, of Hopkinsville, and Elder T. W. Moore, of Flat Rock, were elected commissioners to the General Assembly at Dickson, Tenn. in May. Wednesday at eleven o'clock Rev. A. C. Bidle preached a great sermon on "A Call to the Ministry." In the afternoon an excellent Christian Endeavor and Sunday School program was rendered.

Wednesday night Synodical Superintendent Rev. J. T. Barbee in his drastic style delivered a powerful lecture on the sermon question. Thursday morning previous to adjournment Rev. J. L. Price, of Providence, preached an excellent sermon to a large audience. One young man Mr. O. D. Spence, was received under the care of Presbytery as a candidate for the gospel ministry.

Ten ordained ministers were in attendance, three candidates and twenty three elders.

Official statistics give us a presbyterial residential lay membership of 1532 and a non-residential membership of 586, making a grand total of 2118. Not so bad a showing after all since unionism has made some inroads.

SOME REFLECTIONS.

The Cumberland Presbyterian church still lives. It is not dead, though its funeral has often been preached. Vindictiveness and vituperation are not christianity, but it takes a stalwart christianity to stand when principle is assailed.

The confession of Faith is clear and comprehensive, representing a system of doctrine whose only crime is that it does not die. Devout men and women have clung to the confessional standards, tiding through the crucial test, until now the church through God's watch care has a footing as one of the denominations of evangelical christianity.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs.

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bell. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes. J. H. Orme.

Two Miners in Fatal Duel.

Sturgis, Ky., April 20.—Horace Stringer and William Gooch shot each other to death in Holeman's poolroom here, at 6 o'clock last evening, in almost the same spot where three men were killed in the fight on Christmas night between the union miners and the guards of the West Kentucky Coal company. Stringer was shot through the abdomen and heart and two balls passed through Gooch's brain. Both men died almost instantly.

Out of Sight

"Out of sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special force to a sore, burn or wound that's been treated with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's out of sight, out of mind and out of existence. Piles too and chilblains disappear under its healing influence. Guaranteed by J. H. Orme.

NOTICE.

All the graduates of the Marion Graded and High Schools, are requested to meet at the school auditorium Thursday afternoon, April 25, at 4 o'clock. This meeting is for the purpose of getting ready for the Alumni meeting. Be sure to come.

Tornadoes and windstorms are likely to occur at any season of the year, but more especially in the spring. The savings of a lifetime may be swept away at any moment. You secure absolute protection at a small cost from Bourland & Haynes.

Artlack-Brantley.

Ewell Artlack, of Gladstone, Ky., and Miss Bessie Brantley were united in marriage April 17, 1907. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Artlack. He is an industrious young gentleman.

The bride is a daughter of Henry Brantley, of Gladstone. She is beautiful and loved by all who know her.

"Yes, I Remember You Well and Pleasantly."

Our old friend J. B. Morse, of Atwood, Kan., writes us as follows, under date of April 18: "I want the Daily Herald and the Record-Press one year. Mr. S. M. Jenkins I remember you quite well. When you were on the road I was a merchant in Cordsville, Ky. You would stop at my hotel. Do you remember me? Good bye. J. B. M."

Situations Guaranteed.

We do not guarantee situations to prospective students in order to get their patronage. Schools of merit do not resort to such dishonest practices.

"Fake schools" guarantee situations in order to secure students, because they have no other inducements to offer.

Our work is so thorough that a guarantee is superfluous. Business men are so eager to get competent help here that a large percentage of our students take positions before they graduate.

See us before making arrangements for your business and shorthand education at some inferior, fake school. We will take pleasure in telling you all about the loopholes in the "position guarantees" of dishonest schools. Catalogs free.

A Bit of History.

The Hurricane class was first organized at the home of Rev. R. C. Love's grand father. A traveling preacher organized the class. In those days we did not have the advantage of our preachers in charge as we have them now. We had that the first deed was given by Richard Minner, June 20, 1843 to the trustees of Hurricane class and their successors. It consisted of three and one-half acres of land. The second deed was given by R. H. Haynes June 9, 1855 containing three acres of land. The third deed was given by J. B. Stephenson Feb. 17, 1892 one-half acre of land. The fourth deed was given by Wm. Barnett Aug. 4, 1893 containing one-half acre. The fifth deed was given by A. M. and T. E. Hearin Sept. 25, 1893 containing one-fourth acre of ground.

The Holiness people with other good people purchased this land for the benefit of the campmeeting and added it to the former church land in order to keep away stands and other hindrances from the meetings. New in the year of 1889 the writer assisted Rev. S. K. Breeding in a meeting at this place and from it the Holiness movement started. Bro. Jackson Millikan, a Baptist at that time, got under conviction for a clean heart. The preacher in charge not being in the experience of Holiness or sanctification the writer drove eighteen miles to his home to get his wife to help him in the meeting, he, the writer, being the only one in this experience. After night service made this drive home and returned for the eleven o'clock service next day. I wanted Bro. Jack to get sanctified for more than one reason. He was a Baptist at this time and I knew it would help him and his church if they would get it. I was a Methodist, wife was a C. P. so you see I was working for a union to one in Christ. God was in this and Jack got the blessing. Then I gave Bro. Jim Terry the Way of Life to read. We were on the grand jury at this time and he got the blessing soon after. Glory to God!

Then W. F. Hogard and I helped Bro. Breeding in a meeting at St. Louis church the same fall. But S. K. did not like the manner in which we were conducting the meeting, this thing of calling all his church members up and singing and praying for them. He got restless over this and said in his heart if this was not stopped he would break the meeting, but some way he kept this to himself, later on he told us about it, but the meeting went on all the same.

One day we three went home with T. A. Minner for dinner. We had a good time Sister Minner knew what Methodist people liked to eat and she had it. After dinner was over we talked a while and went out to the grove for prayers. And talk about the best way and how to do these things. As we sat and told our experience S. K. seemed to be sad and said, "I don't see it on that line or that way, and as we walked down the lane to the house I put my hand on S. K.'s shoulder and said, Sam, look up, and he said, "I am coming of course," W. F. and I prayed to the Lord and he did come sure enough, glory to Jesus! He was sent back to that work the next year, 1890.

S. K. Breeding, J. W. Guess, S. F. Crider, Jas. T. Terry, T. A. Minner, J. B. Perry, Dr. L. H. Clement and R. M. Franks, a Baptist at that time, constituted the campmeeting committee. Camps were built by all denominations, a hotel and feed stable were built and the following rules were adopted:

1. There should be no stands.
2. That the ladies and gentlemen should not sit together during services.

There was a large shed built for a place of worship. People by the hundreds have come to this place to get religion and sanctification, and glory to God they got what they came for. Sixteen years have come and gone, yet still this good work goes on. But now and then the devil throws in a chunk, but we expect to shout over them all. The committee has always endeavored to meet the demands of the meetings from year to year. The writer has missed three meetings, two from sickness one from helping in a tent meeting and could not go.

Many objects of charity have been met through loving hearts who came on these grounds to do good. And a number of fine Holiness boys have gone out from this camp to preach the gospel of full salvation to other states and our own state as well. It is a great privilege to look back over these sixteen years and think of the good times we have had at old Hurricane campmeeting. You call Bro. Breeding, of North Carolina, Bro. Jim Bigham, of Florida, J. J. Smith, A. A. Niles, W. W. Hopper, B. A. Cundiff, Sister Birdie Crow, of Missouri, and hundreds of others we could name if we had time and space. You ask them about this campmeeting. Yet with all of these and a thousand other good things that have grown out of these meetings there are a few two by fours ready to kick and to my surprise they claim to be Methodist and the Methodist people support them.

But hear what the Bible says, Micah 6:7 "So in love and full of faith we will move on to victory in Jesus name and the past under the blood and our eyes on the cross." The writer would say to the present committee, stand in your places like men. Shun all evil. Make no compromises with the world, but do right in all things. You can't afford to do anything short of this. Too many good things have gone to record on the Lamb's Book of Life to stain your garments now. Continue to throw out the life lines. Men are hanging and starving for the truth and you will shine as the stars by and by. Nineteen years ago the good Lord sanctified me in the town of Marion Crittenden county Kentucky on Wednesday in Feb. 1888 and I am still drinking at the fountain. With good will to all men I am fifty-seven years old, joined the church at twelve years of age. I am on the home stretch now, glory to God!

Good Judgment

is the essential characteristic of men and woman. Invaluable to good business men and necessary to housewives. A woman shows good judgment when she buys White's Cream Vermifuge for her baby. The best worm medicine offered to mothers. Many indeed are the sensible mothers, who write expressing their gratitude for the good health of their children, which they owe to the use of White's Cream Vermifuge. Sold by J. H. Orme.

Stood The Test.

Allecock's Plasters have successfully stood the test of sixty years use by the public; their virtues have never been equalled by the unscrupulous imitator who have sought to trade upon the reputation of Allecock's by making plasters with holes in them, and claiming them to be just as good as Allecock's.

Allecock's plasters stand today endorsed by not only the highest medical authorities, but by millions of grateful patients who have proved their efficacy as a household remedy.

It Takes Nerve

Everything depends upon your nerves. It is nerve force that causes the brain to direct the motion of your body; it is nerve force that causes your heart to pulsate, and send the blood through your veins, it is nerve force that causes your stomach to digest food, your kidneys to filter the blood, and the liver to secrete bile.

In fact, nerve force is the power that runs your body, so if you feel worn-out, irritable, nervous, cannot sleep, or eat well, have pain or misery anywhere, your nerves are weak, and your system run-down. To restore this vitality take Dr. Miles' Nerve which will strengthen and build up the nerves. You cannot be healthy without strong nerves.

"For sixteen years Dr. Miles' Nerve and Anti-Pain Pills have been my life companions. Early in married life, while raising children, my nerves became all worn out, could not sleep, had no appetite, became very bad, and had such awful dizzy spells. Then I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve, and at once began to improve, and soon found myself in perfect health."

WILLIAM COLMESNEIL
Took Out First Train Over The Ohio Valley Railroad.

The death of William T. Colmesneil, a few days ago at Henderson, rendered him service one of the best of the railroad conductors in the Ohio Valley. He was well known in Louisville, having been born within a few miles of the city, where he grew to manhood and first entered the railroad business. He was of French extraction, his father having emigrated from France to this country and settling near Louisville. William T. Colmesneil was fifty-eight years of age at the time of his death, which was the result of a complication of diseases. William T. Colmesneil was the first conductor that ever ran a train into Lexington, Ky., over the Knoxville branch of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad. A Louisville friend said a Louisville friend said: "After leaving the Louisville and Nashville Railroad he went to Texas, where he was engaged in a railroad business for a number of years. When the Ohio Valley Railroad was started from Evansville, Ind., to Lexington, Ky., in 1886, William Colmesneil was the first conductor to run a train over the road. This was done mainly by Capt. Sam Colmesneil, the Pittsburg coal king, and a personal friend of Colmesneil."

"THE OLD WORLD AND ITS WAYS"
This is the title of a new and profusely illustrated book by Capt. William T. Colmesneil, recounting his recent journey around the earth and then Europe, which was so widely heralded than the American Press.
The book is an illustrated and descriptive record of that entire journey, which is so memorable in current history. The journey embraced a period of a year, and covered practically all the nations of the earth.
Capt. Colmesneil traveled with camera and pencil, and not only described in brilliant phrase what he saw, but further illustrated his journey by photographs. These photographs constitute a striking pictorial presentation and lend special interest to the book. They number 240, and they show in picture the world as he saw it. They constitute a record of many striking things, lessons of the people of all countries in their cities, towns and villages in their homes and everyday occupations.
The book will interest every reader as a unique presentation of a wonderfully interesting journey. It is sold only through select dealers. The Thompson Publishing Co., of St. Louis, Mo., are the fortunate publishers. They advertise for agents in another column of this issue.
Stomach And Liver Troubles Cured.
Dr. J. H. Orme's Laxative Syrup cures stomach and liver troubles as it aids digestion, and stimulates the liver and bowels without irritating these organs like pills and ordinary cathartics. It cures indigestion and sick headache and chronic constipation. Dr. J. H. Orme's Laxative Syrup does not nauseate or grip and is mild and pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes. J. H. Orme.

The News-Examiner Drug Cough Cure-Laws would be needed, if all Cough Cures were like Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure, and has been for 20 years. The National Law now requires that if any poisons enter into a cough mixture, it must be printed on the label or package.
For this reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels, and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. In Memoriam.
Mrs. Gertrude Ryan, wife of J. R. Ryan Jr., and daughter of E. P. Dever and wife, of Pinksneyville neighborhood, died at her home at Salem, Ky., March 9 1907.

Sister Gertrude Dever Ryan was born Feb. 10, 1855. Was married to J. R. Ryan Jr. Feb. 3, 1904. To this union has been given two children, who survive their mother. Sister Ryan professed faith in Christ at the age of fourteen years, and though she never identified herself in church relations, yet she talked confidently of her hope in Christ, and of her joy in salvation, and had she lived no doubt would have joined the church of her choice in the near future. Sister Ryan was a bright intellectual sweet spirited woman, a faithful loving wife, a fond affectionate mother and a friend to all. She died in triumph of a living faith and has gone to a christian's reward. She leaves a husband and little children, her parents and a number of relatives, and a host of friends to mourn her loss. Card of Thanks.
Words can not express our heart felt thanks to our friends and neighbors during the sad and serious illness and death of our wife, daughter and sister. Our hearts will ever go out to them, and we shall always remember them in our prayers, and may Heaven's richest blessings rest upon them through their future life. J. W. Branson, R. L. Howerton, wife and children.

Gone Home.
It is with pleasure, yet with a feeling of incompetency that the writer endeavors to grant the request to write a brief sketch of the life, death and burial of Sister Nora Branson.
How inscrutable are the ways of Providence. Who can tell why this one, or that one, is called home when he or she can least be shared. Yet we do thank God that from his blessed word and the sweet experience of his holy religion, that what he does is best for us all and we should meekly say from our hearts, "His will be done."
Nora Belle Branson, daughter of Richard and Delia Howerton, was born Jan. 30, 1875, died Apr. 10, 1907. Married to J. W. Branson Nov. 5, 1893. To this union were born six children, one dying in infancy. She professed faith in Christ at the age of fourteen, and joined Repton Baptist church in September, 1894 and was baptized in July, 1895. She was a consistent member, loved her church, did all she could to further the cause, and bring sinners home to Christ. The church has lost a loyal member.
She had not been well for a long while, was confined to her bed three weeks with malarial fever and appendicitis when the end came.
Her funeral was preached at her home church by Rev. U. G. Hughes, her remains interred in the Repton cemetery.
The night before she died she asked to be seated in her rocking chair by the fire, and talked so beautifully and submissively for a long while about dying, admonishing her loved ones to live right, telling of her love for her church and her pastor. To those who were present her words were more impressive than any sermon. How sweet to live a christian, but sweeter still to die a christian.

Besides a husband and five little children, she leaves a father, mother, six brothers, two sisters and a host of relatives and friends to mourn her loss. But our loss is her gain. The family tie is broken, one link less on earth, one more in heaven.
To the sorrowing husband, motherless children, aged parents, loving brothers and sisters, we extend our heartfelt sympathy. May this great sorrow refine your hearts, purify your souls, better equip you for right living and prepare you for dying.
Her friend and admirer,
Mrs. Belle Fritts
